HOW TO FREE Q-BERT FROM THE TIME WARP

When Q*bert's title screen appears, choose either 1 or 2 player mode by pressing the Select Button, Next, press the Start Button to go to the Set Up Stage. Once there, follow the on-screen directions.

Each player begins with 5 Q*berts to his or her credit. Your goal is to bounce the hapless little fella up, down and around the Tazmanlans' perilous pyramids, changing the color of each square as you go. The upper-left corner or the screen shows you which color the squares in a stage should be changed to (Note: some stages require you to change the color of each square twice, and in the latter stages if you land on a square a third time it will change back to its original color).

Your supreme challenge is to guide Q+bert through the entire time warp, until you free the pug nosed hero so he can return to his true calling in life—playing a stuntman double for Don Johnson!

You'll also be going for maximum points. After 6,000 points you receive (1) extra Q*bert. You'll receive another Q*bert for every 12,000 points thereafter.

By the way, you have the option of continuing the adventure from the level where your last Q+bert croaked. But only 3 times.

LEVELS OF ADVENTURE

All told, there are 9 loony levels to maneuver Q+bert safely through. Each level contains 4 slippery stages, and as you reach higher stages, the action really gets hairy.

HAR ENAMERS AND

Q-BERT'S ARCH ENEMIES

The bad guys you should fear are Ugg, Wrong-Way, Slick, Sam and Coily. The worst of the bunch are Slick and Sam, because they get their thrills changing a square back to its original color, thus erasing your achievements and forcing you to begin at square one.

You've also gotta watch out for falling Whammy Balls. Bump into them and you're as good as gone!

Q+bert's Survival Secrets

Use the Whirly-Discs at either side of the pyramids to escape from sticky situations and possibly destroy all your enemies at once. If, of course, you can survive without hopping on these

-it's mega-bonus points!

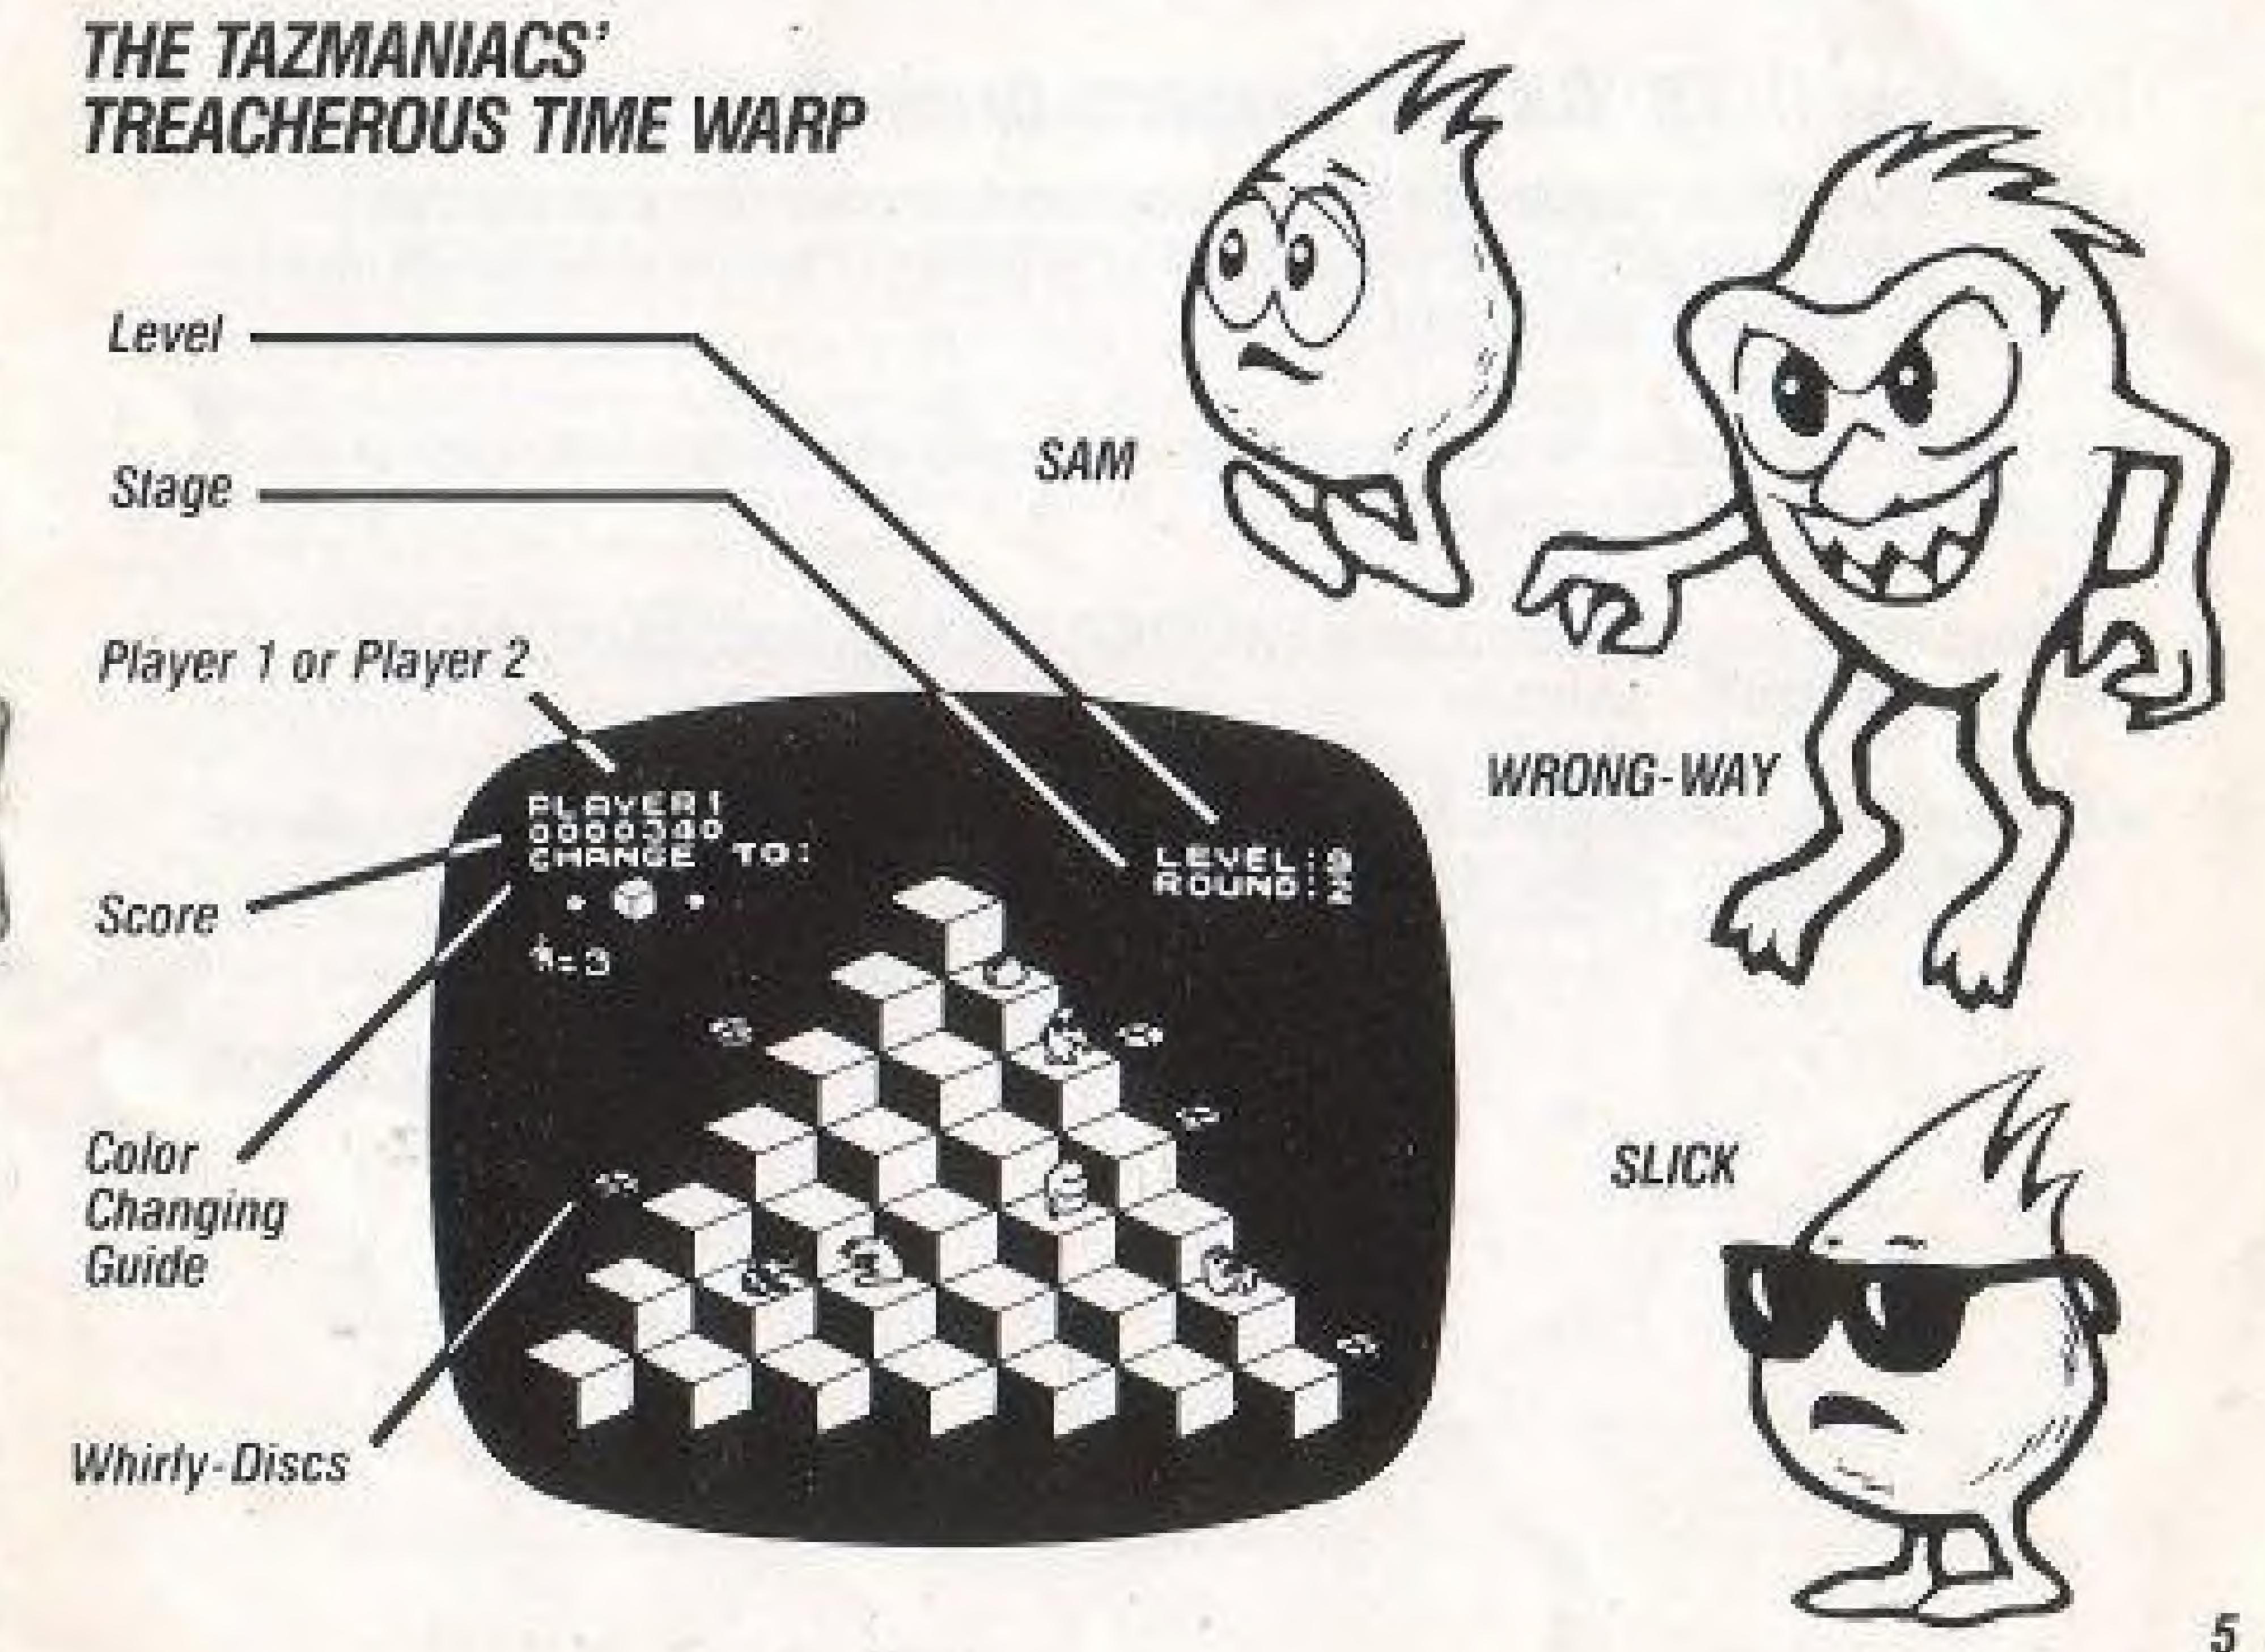

Also, watch for small green balls to drop onto the scene. Jump on these babies and you'll freeze the roving ruffians for a split second or two.

*Hint! Hint! Tilt the Controller at a 45° angle during play to bounce better on the pyramids.
